Reading the map

- Station: a god, monster or hero
- Interchange: where lines begin or meet
- Generations passed over (hover to name them)

Follow a line to trace a family. Each stop is the child of the one before it.

Two lines arriving together are two parents. Ares and Hebe sit where the Zeus and Hera lines meet: they are children of both.

A short step along a zone joins partners. The Rhea line steps across to Cronus, then runs beside the Sovereignty line to their children.

Small bars are generations passed over. Between Perseus and Heracles the Argive line passes Electryon and Alcmene.

Gods and monsters follow Hesiod's Theogony; heroes follow Apollodorus' Library.
